BURMESE-YUNNAN BORDER—(By Clipper)—The Japanese have built three new airfields just inside the northern Indo-Chinese border within close proximity to the Burma road, over which several hundred million dollars worth of American lease-lend materials must roll into China during the next 12-18 months.

These airfields are small but Japan's air power, she has 100 fighters, can operate from them easily. With the dry season, which is just beginning here, Japan's fighters will now be able to protect their bombers in raids along more than 1,000 miles of China's vital lifeline, even though they must, heretofore, risk meeting up with modern American-made pursuit craft of the Chinese air force.

Consequently, it is conceivable that the real battle of the Burma road may commence almost any week. This poses the question whether the Japanese will synchronize an overland aerial assault against the bases for the Japanese air force, which is completed in Indo-China. But it could Japan's army strike the Burma road by land?

OBJECTIVES

For the Japanese, the two most practical objectives would be Kunming, the terminus of road traffic from Lashio, and Kweiyang, approximately halfway between Kunming and Chungking. To cut the Yunnan highway at either of these cities would create a powerful cutoff and determined Japanese forces, yet nothing less than this offer could possibly be of use to the Japanese in their drive to Tokyo's invaders.

Military observers agree that a drive for Kunming would almost certainly have to follow the Burma-Yunnan railroad, the line which was China's second major artery to the Japanese took over northern Indo-China nearly a year ago. Beyond the Indo-Chinese border, this railroad runs through stretches of very mountainous country, so most experts believe a lead-on push toward Kunming is likely to be more than the Japanese could handle. Many would care to attempt at the present time.

As a result the city of Kweiyang may become Japan's major objective during the coming months—unless, of course, the Japanese first decide to occupy Thailand to strengthen their position upon the entire length of the Burma road, or unless Tokyo's airforce, stationed in China, is ordered to go all-out against Russia's maritime line with her Manchurian army.

For two months indications have been increasing that Japan is preparing for an eventual showdown with the Russians and this possibility certainly cannot be discounted, especially since it would fall in with the ardent desires of Tokyo's Axis partners to drive the Japanese people from their present exotic stalemate in China.

KEY POINT

Nevertheless, Kweiyang remains a tantalizing key point in Japanese strategists, if they are to confine their main efforts to the Chinese war theatre. From the south the Japanese, moving from Indo-China through Nanning, could strike to reach Kweiyang. Or they might also drive southwesterly straight at Kweiyang from Changsha—if they can take and consolidate their hold on Changsha. Undoubtedly, this explains the Japanese assault upon Changsha in late September.

If Chinese claims of a serious Japanese defeat at Changsha are substantiated, the Japanese would not be able to attack again in this vital sector for some time. But, Changsha, in Japanese hands, would constitute a double threat since an advance from there would be launched along a good highway to

Today's War Moves

Japan has been able to effect two and possibly three which Britain has at Singapore. Japan has 12. In other categories, except for a slight inferiority in engines, the Japanese are equal to the British. Japan thus acted swiftly to prevent an allied concentration in the Pacific.

American and British bases in the Pacific have been attacked. Two thousand miles of Hawaii is the Pacific coast of the United States.

If it actually was Japanese planes which were the cause of the Pacific coast last night, the intent is obvious. It would not be so much to cause material damage, although that would be accomplished if possible. The main purpose served is to keep American air and sea forces in guard areas and away from possible battle areas in the west. Japanese submarine raiders in those waters would have the same effect.

The above is the first conclusion developed from the preliminary reports of the war. American forces in Japan are working in collaboration with the British. It is an even broader picture may presently emerge.

NAZIS PLAN MOVE

About the only thing in an actual state of war between the United States and Germany is the situation in the North. Now rumors are current that Germany is about to take that situation. It presumably would not be an idle gesture but a preliminary to some form of attack on the Atlantic side.

There are islands in the Atlantic which the Axis might try to occupy, in spite of British and American domination of the seas. The islands of the Azores, Madeira, and the Azores, controlled by Vichy, is one. There are some French naval bases in the Azores. The Japanese carrier Bismarck in Axis hands, it would be a dangerous base in the West Indies.

Such action would entail the control of Vichy. There has been no indication that the French have even tentatively agreed to Axis use of their navy. There have been suggestions, however, that Vichy is weak. The projected conference of Vichy's Admiral Darlan with Italian officials is the latest one.

ward Chungking as well as toward Kweiyang.

To cut the Burma supply first, however, might seem a shrewder and more prudent policy for the Japanese. It is a possibility, however, that the Japanese, pushing up through Nanning, might be able to reach Kweiyang.

It is true that the real battle for the Burma road may be postponed, and an attempt to cut the road by overland means may possibly never be made on a big scale. That will make a desperate attempt to win the Chinese war at all costs before China's armament becomes too strong.

JAPANESE DECISION

Until Tokyo's decision becomes clear, however, developments around Nanning and Changsha may at any moment focus the world's attention upon the strategic importance of Kweiyang.

Meanwhile, and in any case, air attacks over the 1,000-mile route and wholly Chinese section of the Burma road can scarcely fail to make much interference with the aid, goods and effective delivery of American war materials to China at stake.

Rioters Enforce Pacific Coast Said Imminent Blackout

Seattle, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Smashing shop windows and looting displays, a crowd in excess of 1,000 persons enforced Seattle's first wartime blackout in defiance of police today.

The crowd, completely out of control of city police, milled through the center of the city's business district for an hour before dispersing at midnight.

Approximately 30 show windows, ranging from the great release of glass plates, were smashed. Nearly all of the displays were looted. Some of the merchandise being thrown in the streets and some of the crowd looting.

The demonstration began at the intersection of Fourth and Pine streets, the city's busiest thoroughfare. A jam of people gathered beneath a huge blue neon sign stretching nearly half a block on each side of an upstairs clothing store.

The sign, left alight when nearly all other lights were turned off at 11 p. m. last night, shed a ghastly glow over the entire intersection.

Yells and catcalls commenced almost immediately and minutes later, bottles, rocks, tin cans and other debris were being heaved despite the efforts of a squad of police.

Eventually, an employee of a company broke out of a third floor window from inside the building and climbed his way along the top of the sign—in a shower of miscellaneous missiles—to a connection to extinguish the light.

START CROWD MOVING

Police cars pushing their way along the curb started the crowd moving, while an officer with a megaphone urged all civilians to go home. In fact, members of the crowd were prevented from complying by the fact that most city buses had stopped running and anxious officers in other parts of the city were forcing all private vehicles to stop. Many of the members of the crowd were defense workers who had made their way down town after work only to be stopped from going any further.

Moving away from the intersection, the crowd, urged on by shouting women, gathered at a small jewelry store across the street where a single light burned in an entry. A rock thrown from far back smashed the window glass door and a triumphant youngster rushed inside to grab the offending bulb.

At Fifth and Pike, missiles showered against windows of another jewelry store where lighted Christmas trees had been left burning. One bottle cracked a door pane and a police officer kicked out the remaining pane of glass and crawled inside to the light switch.

SMASH STORE FRONT

The next objective was two doors away where no windows glittered under the impact of bottles. The crowd, urged on by shouting women, smashed the store front, pushing up through Nanning, might be able to reach Kweiyang.

It is true that the real battle for the Burma road may be postponed, and an attempt to cut the road by overland means may possibly never be made on a big scale. That will make a desperate attempt to win the Chinese war at all costs before China's armament becomes too strong.

Eventually, after at least two men had been cut and brains glassed and one man and a woman arrested.

Jury Places No Blame In Fatal Crash

Verdict in Edmonton Bulletin

LACOMB, Dec. 8.—(Pet. Ill.)—A jury of 12 men, in the trial of the crash which struck and killed 8-year-old Edward Sheridan, Lacombe schoolboy, on Tuesday afternoon was completely cleared of all blame by the coroner's jury which inquired into the tragedy in a verdict handed in Monday.

The jury, which sat under Coroner Dr. F. D. Locke, brought in the following verdict:

"We find that Edward Sheridan died in Lacombe and District Community hospital, on Wednesday, Dec. 3, from injuries received when he ran into a truck owned by Dench Cartage Company of Canada, proceeding south on Union street, at or about 4:15 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 2. From the evidence given, we find that the driver of the truck, Peter Hilabek, who was driving the truck in a very cautious manner.

SAW ACCIDENT

Harold Burden of Lacombe, first witness, testified that he saw two boys run between his car and another automobile. Burden tried to grab Sheridan, who was in front, but was unsuccessful.

The boy was hit by the right front fender of the truck and his head was hit by the headlight.

Burden said the truck was stopped quite close to the impact and that Lewis Logan got out of the truck and picked the child up from the street at the back of the vehicle. The injured boy was taken here to the hospital in a car driven by Mrs. Jack McWilliam.

Peter Hilabek, driver and freight handler for the cartage company, said that he was driving from the Star Cartage premises, at the time of the accident. A bus was parked in front of the bus depot at the time of the accident. A car was pulling out from the car near the bus. He showed to the car come and suddenly saw two boys run out from between cars parked on the west side of the street. The boys were about three feet away and he had no chance to avoid hitting young Sheridan.

ISSUE STATEMENT

The coroner's jury heard evidence from Hilabek, who said that he saw two boys run out from between cars parked on the west side of the street. The boys were about three feet away and he had no chance to avoid hitting young Sheridan.

GOING SLOWLY

Logan, who also resided in Red Dacre, also testified in the trial. He said that he saw two boys run out from between cars parked on the west side of the street. The boys were about three feet away and he had no chance to avoid hitting young Sheridan.

DR. W. T. Hynes, Lacombe physician, said the Sheridan boy was suffering from shock and severe pain in the abdomen when brought to the hospital. He said the cause of death was internal injuries.

San Francisco Has Three Air Raid Alarms

Some of the planes after hours of confusion and conflicting reports issued during a sudden early evening air raid alarm—first on the mainland and blackout lasting 2 1/2 hours.

Afterwards, searchers still sought whereabouts of one group of 13 planes that flew northwest from San Jose, 50 miles south of San Francisco, blackouts were placed in effect in almost every major west coast city.

Police ordered motorists to drive with only parking lights. Street cars turned off most of their lights and motor buses proceeded without lights.

From district firehouses all over the city came the call of fire sirens, as engines were driven to streets and fire emergency noise-makers turned on. All local broadcasting stations were off the air.

Along the city's western beach and at the blacked-out Presidio of San Francisco, 15 huge searchlights were placed in operation a half hour after the air raid alarm. They flashed nothing.

In an area a mile or two removed from the searchlight batteries, observers heard the roar of airplane engines but were unable to see any planes. The sound faded gradually in the west.

South Africa To Join In Warfare

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Union of South Africa cabinet discussed the Pacific war situation Monday, and the dominion was expected to announce its support of the British Commonwealth in a declaration of war against Japan shortly.

It was announced officially by the government also would join in the Empire war declarations against Finland, Hungary and Rumania.

The "reason for the order," he said, "was that it was reported on the Pacific coast that a Japanese fleet of planes was coming in on the Pacific coast. We did not want them to ride in on our beam of light."

He said that planes, radar equipment, and other military equipment were being moved in on the beam of light of the western stations.

The order issued to the coast province stations, coupled with an order for a blackout of lights and other electrical services, said "The situation is such that an attack by Japanese forces on the Pacific northwest coast is imminent."

Operators of stations in Saskatchewan and Alberta were not given the reason for the order issued to them, according to reports from Regina and Edmonton.

"We were ordered by the Western Air Command to shut down all stations in British Columbia and Alberta and all stations of 1,000 watts or more in Saskatchewan."

Looking Over

JACK KELLY

THIS Saturday night will bring Edmonton's belated start in the current hockey season when the Maple Leafs and E.A.C. of the Junior League clash at the new 119th street rink under the white winter stars.

At last night's meeting of the city council, it came out that progress on the 119th street rink hasn't been what it might. It appears that the cost is going to exceed the original estimate by considerable and the whole project will be reviewed today by the city commissioners.

It would be an excellent idea to include in this review of the undertaking a consideration of ways and means of providing a heated skating rink to defeat the cold of the winter at 119th street. This rink has already run into a fair amount of money and the city certainly has little hope of getting any of it back via gate receipts unless some provision is made for fans to get warm once in awhile during a game.

Jacobs Is Packing 'Em In

It has generally been figured that the fight game would never again reach the heights that it did during the Golden Twenties under the magic touch of Tex Rickard, but Mike Jacobs' attendance figures for the year 1941 will show speaking distance of Rickard's top years. Rickard's best year was the fiscal year of 1927-28 with a total attendance of 861,000 and 1928-29 with 675,000. Those totals included those super-duper attractions, the two Dempsey-Tunney battles, each of which drew well over 100,000.

This year Jacobs' various promotions already have drawn a total of $50,000 and the old ticket scalper is almost certain to draw another $30,000 from the Ziv-McCoy and Jenkins-Angeli brawls before we celebrate another New Year's Eve. This total has been built up by 25 fights, 11 of which were outside of New York city.

The payoff, however, falls far short of Rickard's gladiator. In fact, Jimmy 141 takings will be less than they were in 1933 when the Louis Brier fight drew $100,000 and 1938 when Louis vs. Schmeling grossed nearly a million. Jacobs' gross take this year will not exceed $150,000. The biggest attendance that Jacobs' bemedded upon this year was 60,071 to see Camille Little.

Incidentally, Jacobs has got himself into another mess of legal rig. Herman Taylor of Philadelphia, the biggest fight promoter in the U. S., sent to Jacobs, has started a drive to have Washington intervene in the boxing trust which alleges Mike Jacobs operate to the detriment of the book-making industry.

Another legal case has been started by Taylor as a result of Ray Robinson, class New York negro welter contender, failing to go through with a contracted return bout with Marty Sero of the Navy at Philadelphia. Taylor alleges that Robinson's run-out was inspired by Jacobs.

Who wanted Robinson's services in the Washington Irving Hotel.

The odds, however, are that Mike Jacobs is not in any danger of a congressional investigation just now, that august body having slightly more important things to investigate—such as how those blasted Zaps managed to sneak in to Pearl Harbor Sunday morning.

Thisa And Thata Data

LAST night city council approved and confirmed the appointment to the Edmonton Boxing and Wrestling Commission for two-year terms of W. Griffin, Frank Heller and Dr. F. W. Crang.

Entry blanks are now on their way to breeders throughout Canada for the 1944 running of the Canadian Derby. These entries are for Canadian-bred colts of 1941 and must be in by January 1.

Word has just come through of the death of Frank "Wampus" Puller at Burlington, California, on Dec. 3. For many years he was a familiar figure on the prize ring circuit as a trainer to Sammy Joe Davis.

At the time of his death he was trainer for the Rooster Farm. He was 45 years of age and heart trouble was the cause.

Community League Hockey This Year Has 14 Entries

There will be seven teams in both the men's and juvenile hockey divisions in the Federation of Community Leagues' provincial tournament, according to an announcement made following Monday night's meeting of the sports committee.

McCabe's, Highlanders, Jasper Place, Calmar, Bantula, Westmont and Cloverdale have entered teams in the men's division, while the juveniles have entered from King Edward Park, Brierley, Bantula, Calmar, Jasper Place, Highlanders and Cloverdale.

This year there are no Junior clubs. In case there are no junior midweek players to be taken care of, provision will be made for a special league.

The first game will be played on Dec. 16 and the schedule will be set in the course of a few days.

George Brown, sports director, announced as last night's meeting, which was also attended by the following:

G. F. Hunter, secretary-treasurer of the committee and representing Cloverdale, W. Arnett, Westmont, M. W. T. Hix, secretary of the Federation of Community Leagues, and E. J. Hix, secretary of the Federation of Community Leagues.

This total has been built up by 25 fights, 11 of which were outside of New York city.

The payoff, however, falls far short of Rickard's gladiator. In fact, Jimmy 141 takings will be less than they were in 1933 when the Louis Brier fight drew $100,000 and 1938 when Louis vs. Schmeling grossed nearly a million. Jacobs' gross take this year will not exceed $150,000. The biggest attendance that Jacobs' bemedded upon this year was 60,071 to see Camille Little.

Incidentally, Jacobs has got himself into another mess of legal rig. Herman Taylor of Philadelphia, the biggest fight promoter in the U. S., sent to Jacobs, has started a drive to have Washington intervene in the boxing trust which alleges Mike Jacobs operate to the detriment of the book-making industry.

Another legal case has been started by Taylor as a result of Ray Robinson, class New York negro welter contender, failing to go through with a contracted return bout with Marty Sero of the Navy at Philadelphia. Taylor alleges that Robinson's run-out was inspired by Jacobs.

Who wanted Robinson's services in the Washington Irving Hotel.

The odds, however, are that Mike Jacobs is not in any danger of a congressional investigation just now, that august body having slightly more important things to investigate—such as how those blasted Zaps managed to sneak in to Pearl Harbor Sunday morning.

Ball Hopes To Carry On

Impact Of War Upsets Major Baseball Trade Plans

CINCINNATI, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Baseball's leaders turned their attention to the war emergency Monday and the new attempts at trade talks quickly fizzled. What effect the emergency would have on baseball was a matter for conjecture, yet in general the old heads of baseball agreed on two points—that the game would do whatever the government wanted it to do, and that for the time being, at least, it would not be seriously handicapped.

Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis declared:

"Don't it beat hell? They attacked us without warning as they did the Russians years ago."

"Who will it do to baseball?"

"No one can even guess. I would be going away out on the limb if I ventured a prediction."

Will Harridge, president of the American League, expressed the thought of everyone by saying "the nation's welfare is, of course, the first consideration, and we will do whatever is desired by the government, but I'm sure that baseball will carry on its schedule as it always has."

William G. Brannan, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, said he believed the country would be able to continue as a regular season for the year.

"Every business will be affected by the war," he said, "and baseball will be hurt just as much as more than any other business. We may have to make sacrifices, but our manpower may be curtailed, but we can't believe that baseball will be curtailed."

"U" Hockey Coach Commends Group

Addressing a meeting of the Comopolis Club in the Corona hotel Tuesday noon, Stan Mohr, hockey coach at the University of Alberta, paid tribute to the Edmonton and District Hockey Association as a means of providing hockey for middle, juvenile and junior players who otherwise would have no chance of indulging in Canada's national pastime.

Mr. Mohr urged the members to bond the organization to every possible way. He spoke of the various advantages usually tied in with the game, such as health, learning the spirit of co-operation and developing the individual's character. Many Canadian boys, he said, are earning their living through professional hockey and others had paid their way through university and colleges.

Mr. Mohr's address was followed by a showing of the motion picture "Hot Ice," dealing with the development of the average Canadian youngster from the community rink star to the Madison Square Garden star-to-night player. The film was shown by H. P. Brown of the University of Alberta extension department.

HEAVY LOSSES Nazi Casualties Put At 6,000,000

MOSCOW, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Pravda, Communist party organ, estimated today the Germans had lost approximately 6,000,000 men in killed, wounded and captured during the first five months of fighting in Russia.

Pravda, the Moscow radio said, also estimated the Germans had lost more than 15,000 tanks, about 12,000 aircraft and 15,000 guns.

DNBB, German news and propaganda agency, claimed last week that Soviet losses in the first five months of fighting in Russia were "put out of action" since German invaders Russia last June.

Red army troops attacking in temperatures as low as 17 degrees below zero have forced the Germans from several localities before Moscow and cost them heavy casualties, Soviet government agencies announced meanwhile.

Pravda said the Germans had been ground back with heavy losses in sectors of the important Tula front, 100 miles south of Moscow.

The snow and biting air drew heavy comment from Russians.

"Wait, this is nothing," a Moscow radio announcer said.

(A Berlin military spokesman said yesterday that winter conditions, including cold and ice, meant that it took more oil-would-would have killed 100,000 German operations in Russia until Spring including the two-month offensive against the capital.

The Soviet Information bureau said a 4,000-ton Axis transport had been sunk in the Black Sea.

Russian armies were declared to have knocked 128 German tanks and 940 trucks out of action and destroyed or destroyed more than three regiments of infantry Sunday.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix: I am engaged to be married to a nice girl whom I love, but at times I get awfully scared. Do all brides get that sensation, or are they so very sure that they don't get it a peep until they think of the future? Is there any way in which a girl can tell if she has chosen the right man to be her husband? FRIGHTENED

Answer: Probably brides nearly all prospective brides are. Dorothy Dix bridegrooms, no matter how much they love each other, spend the last part of their engagement in a blue funk, dreading the thought of their wedding bells as if they were the toll of doom. For every thinking person realizes that marriage is the crisis of a life and there is an awful finality about it that only the very mature can overcome.

It is the stepping out of the life one knows into a new life of which one is completely ignorant, and whether one will find it as happy as misery, kindness or cruelty, no one is fool enough to foretell. Many and many a bride and groom are in such a state of jitters that they wonder if they are fit for the very foot of the altar if they had the courage to do so.

So, be guided by your warm heart instead of your cold feet, and go on with your marriage. There are no safe bets in life. You are bound to take a risk in everything you do, and the percentage of failures in marriage is no greater than in anything else. At the worst the chances are six to one against your getting a divorce, and that is a good sporting proposition.

You may have known the John Jones who are marrying every day of your marriage days and think there isn't a reason in his mind or a kink in his character with which you are not familiar, but when he gets to be your husband you will find that he has peculiarities of which you never dreamed, and that he is better and worse, stronger and weaker, more lovable and less likable than you thought he would be.

Also, you will find that often a man who has all the standard virtues has none of the qualities that make him a good husband. A pillar of the community may be a human leech, a philanthropist who breeds all the charity lunas may be a tightwad at home, whereas some lad your mother never would have picked out for you as a husband may be so loving and tender and kind and generous that you will spend your life thanking heaven for having got him.

But don't forget this, daughter: When you are wondering what sort of a husband a girl will make, decide a little time to spending on what kind of a wife you will make. In most marriages each one gets as good as they give.

Canadian Women 'Do Their Bit' On Many Fronts During 1941

ON MANY FRONTS DURING 1971

BY PATRICIA CONNELLEY

OCTAVIA, DE 8, is a busy woman. She is in charge of the home office and the "cannon line" in 1971, and as a wife, mother and sister she answered the call to help wage war. Right from the very beginning of the government's campaign to cancel taxation in the oil industry, she has been active in the anti-oil campaign.

Canadian women took leadership in war factories, armament and munitions plants, and in the armed forces.

Later in the year, the formation of the Women's Air Force Auxiliary in the West, Air Force Auxiliary in the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force brought further opportunities for women active in the war effort.

Women's work in factories home and field brought glowing tribute from the men.

Banking in the House of Commonwealths, voluntary work in businesses operated for the benefit of the war effort, and the women in the three services as well as the merchant marine.

At home, the East Coast women, an average of 100,000, were active in the war effort. In the home, meals are served daily to the men. At another centre, meals are prepared and served to the men.

keeps the heart of the nation united and the people of the north, south and in the communities are doing a survey of the highest possible quality."

It is essential in time of war, even more so than in peace that the life of the community should be maintained, that the age-old principle be maintained that the "dependents of our fighting men should be comforted in time of need and that the men themselves should be encouraged and comforted."

Speaking of the part played by Canadian women as a whole Mr. Thornton said "Women of Canada are being recruited by voluntary work in the rest of Canada. An American Nurse staffed entirely by voluntary workers who meet all incoming supplies. The sick and wounded are being cared for in hospitals and extended to all refugees and evacuees. Survivors of U-boat sinkings are completely outdone."

PROGRESS IN QUEBEC

Quebec women took two steps forward in 1941 in their long fight for equal rights with men. For the first time in Quebec's history, women exercised the political franchise, voting in by-elections in Huntingdon and St. John's-Napierville constituencies. The vote had been granted women in 1940 by government legislation but the two by-elections brought the first actual

Mrs. Marion Harlow, newly appointed assistant director of the nutrition department, returning in the formative period of the national nutrition campaign, Canada's only "dollar-a-year" woman, Mrs. Basil for its use.

Typical of other systems of Canada's war effort is the Prairie Provinces concerned themselves chiefly with war work. One of many hundreds of girls who have offered to work for the war effort is Miss Janet Caruthers who was one of the first from the Dominion to go to England. She left Winnipeg shortly after the outbreak of the war and has been home for a few equipped associates. Miss Caruthers returned to Canada during the past year—starting a 4000

Church, Social Service Unity Urged By Rev. Cannon W. W. Judd

Canada must be prepared for a vast increase in social service work through the Dominion during the post-war period, Rev. Cannon W. W. Judd of Toronto stated in Edmonton Tuesday. Cannon Judd, who is the general secretary of the Council for Social Service of the Church of England in Canada, is in the city to meet the clergy and public in regard to aspects of Anglican social service.

Coming to the city from the Pacific coast, he stated that he was very pleased with the social service work being done in British Columbia.

During the morning he addressed the clergy of the Edmonton diocese at All Saints' cathedral, speaking on the need for greater cooperation between the churches and social services. He referred particularly to the need for that cooperation in regard to caring for soldiers and their families.

WELFARE SERVICE

He spoke of the dominion-wide social relations, and stated that there is a need for better welfare service in the country, particularly in some provinces, and suggested that if the work was handled as a national problem the result might be more effective.

On Tuesday evening he will address a public meeting in Christ church parish hall, in which all who are interested in the social service work of the Anglican church are invited.

Cannon Judd will meet the Diocesan Council for Social Service at luncheon on Wednesday, and will leave later in the day for Toronto.

Arena Heat Plant Is Being Installed

To equip the arena at No. 3 main depot, R.C.A.F., for use throughout the winter as a drill hall, a heating plant is being installed and is expected to be in operation by the end of this week. It was learned from Wing Commander J. C. Mahoe, R.C.C., commanding officer.

It was reported earlier in the autumn that expansion of the station to accommodate possibly 5,000 men were being considered, but no further official plans are available on the C.O. side.

To accommodate another 5,000 men, above the present complement, barrack blocks would need to be built but only slight expansion of existing and recreation buildings would be needed.

It is reported in Ottawa that No. 3 Royal Training School also may be enlarged, but official word of this is not available here.

The first group of graduates of the United Kingdom, from the school, 84 airmen will graduate from No. 36 Service Flying Training School, R.A.F. Penhold, on December 18. Badges will be presented by Group Capt. W. R. Farrington, D.S.O., officer commanding, and other officials in attendance will include senior officers of the station. The presentation will be preceded by an award for gallantry made by the commanding officer.
